The Household Baby.

BY EFFIE.

What a joy to human eyes, When it laughs, or when it cries, What a treasure, what a prize Is the household baby!

Be its temper rising, falling, Is it cooing, crowing, calling, 'Tis the same dear, precious darling-Is the household baby!

If the scene without be dreary, If the hearts within grow weary, Baby wakes, and all is cheery-What a rush for baby !

Mamma's eyes grow bright with joy-Grand-pa laughs, and "grand-pa's boy" Gladly leaves his last new toy To play bo-peep with baby.

Sisters from their music run. Maud has caught "the sweetest one," Grace bends down in girlish fun To make a horse for baby.

Up to every thing, we know, Hands and feet "upon the go," What a funny creature though, Is the household baby!

Bring the puppy and the cat, Let her pull, and pinch, and pat, Puss and pup were made for that, Made to please the baby!

Bring those china vases, mamma,

Get "the mirror and the hammer!" Any thing to make a clamor, And delight the baby.

Let it clang and crash away, Let it laugh and shout and play, And be happy while it may. Dear mischievous baby

What a joy to human eyes, What an angel in disguise, Is the household baby!

AN UNWELCOME PASSENGER.

THE PEDLAR'S STORY.

A cold winter's night several years since found a stage load of travellers gathered ground the warm fire of a tavern bar room in a New England village. Shortly after we arrived a pedlar drove up and ordered that his horse should be stabled for the Leather, and the Boot and Shoe repaired to the barrows repaired to the bar-room and as soon as the ice was broken the conversation flowed thes Plantation Boots and Brogans in freely. Several anecdotes had been related, and finally the pedlar was asked to give us a story, as men of his profession were generally full of adventures and anecdotes. He was a short, thick set man, somewhere about forty years of age, and gave evidence of great physical strength. He gave his name as Lemuel Viney, and his home was in Dover, New Hampshire. 'Well, gentlemen,' he commenced, knocking the ashes from his pipe and putting it in his pocket, 'suppose I tell you about the last thing of any consequence that happened to me? You see I am now right from the far west, and on my way home for winter quarters. It was during the early part of last spring, one pleasant evening, I pulled up at the door of a small village tavern in Hancock county, Indiana. I said it was pleasant-I meant it was warm, but it was cloudy and likely to be To show that this is but a stern very dark. I went' in and called for a supper and had my horse taken care of; voice. after I had eaten I sat down in the bar room It began to rain about eight o'clock, and for a while it poured down good, and it was very dark out doors. Now I wanted to be in Jackson early the next morning, for I expected a load of goods there for me, which I intended to dispose of on my way home. The moon would rise about midnight; and I knew if it did not rain, I could get along very comfortably through the mud after that. So I asked the landlord if he could not see that my horse was fed about midnight as I wished to be off about two. He exon as the same opportunity may not last pressed some surprise at this, and asked me why I did not stop for breakfast. I told him I had sold my last load about all out, and that a new lot of goods was waiting for me at Jackson, and I wanted to be there before the express agent left in the morning. There was a number of people sitting round while I told this, but I took ersin general, is respectfully call- little notice of them, one only arrested my as the most important article of the attention. When I went to my chamber I asked the landlord who that man was, describing were falling off, and finally settled down the suspicious individual. He said he did not know him. However, on we went, and in the course of half an hour I was clear of the village. At a short distance ahead lay a large tract of forest, mostly of great pines. The road lay directly through this wood, and as near as I could remember, the distance was twelve miles. Yet the moon was in the east, and as the road ran nearly west, I thought I should have light enough. 1 had entered the woods and had gone about half a mile when my wagon wheels settled with a bump and a jerk into a deep hole. I uttered an exclamation of astonishment, but this was not all. I heard another exclamation from another source! What could it be? I looked quickly around, but could see nothing. Yet I knew that the sound that I heard was very close to me. As the hind wheels came up hole. Of course I that somebody had got in to sleep; but this passed away as quickly as it came, for no there had broken in.

My next thought was of the suspicious individual I saw at the tavern. He had and be came down on his face, and in a heard me say that my load was all sold out, and of course he supposed I had some money with me. In this he was right, for I I recognized him. He was marched off to had over two thousand. I thought he the lock up, and I told the sheriff I should meant to leave the cart when he supposed remain in town all day. I had reached a safe place, and then either creep over and shoot me, or knock me down. All this passed through my mind by the time I had got a rod from the hole. In a few moments my resolution was formed. My horse was now knee deep in the mud, and I knew I could slip off

The door of the cart lets down, and is fastened by a hasp, which slips over the staple and is then secured by a padlock .--The padlock was gone, and the hasp was secured in its own place by a bit of pineso that a slight force from within could break it. My wheel wrench hung in a leather bucket on the side of the cart, and I quickly took it out and slipped it into the staple, the iron handle just sliding

I got on to my cart as noiselessly as I got off, and then urged my horse on, still keeping my pistol handy .-I knew that at the distance of half a mile further I should come to a good hard road. and so I allowed my horse to pick his own way through the mud. About ten minutes after this I heard a motion in the cart, followed by a gripding noise as though some heavy force were being applied to the door. I said nothing, but the idea struck me that the villain might judge where I sat and shoot up through the top of the cart at me, so I sat down on the foot board. Of course I knew now that my unexpected passenger was a villain, for he must have been awake ever since I start d. and nothing in the world but absolute villainy would have caused him to remain quiet so long, and then start up in this particular place. The thumping and pushing grew louder and pretty soon I heard a human

'Let me out of this,' he cried, and he yelled pretty loud.

I lifted up my head so as to make him think I was sitting in my usual place, and then asked him what he was doing there. 'Let me look out, and I will tell you,' he replied.

'Tell me what you are in there for ?' 'I got in here to sleep on your rags.

he answered. 'How did you get in?' I asked. 'Let me out, or I'll shoot you through the head,' he said. Just at that moment my horse's feet struck the hard road, and I knew that the rest of the route to Jackson would be good going. The distance was twelve miles I slipped back on the foot-board and took the whip. In fifteen minutes we cleared the wood, and away we went at a keen jump. The chap inside kept yelling to Finally he stopped, and in a few minutes came the report of a pistol-one-twothree-four, one right after the other, and I heard the balls whiz over my head. 'Well, old fellow,' says I as I got down and went round to the back of the wagon, 'you have had a good ride have n't ye?' 'Who are you?' he cried, and he kind of swore a little, too, as he asked the question.

'I'm the man you tried to shoot,' was my reply. 'Where am I? Let me out!' he yelled. · Look here, we've come to a safe stopping place, and mind ye, my pistol is rea-I felt something besides the jerk of the dy for ye the moment you show yourself.

By this time the two ostlers had come up to see what was the matter, and I explained it all to them. After this I got one of them to run and rout out the sheriff, felt puzzled. At first I imagined some and tell him what I believed I'd got for poor fellow had taken the method to obtain him. The first streaks of daylight were a ride; but I soon gave this up, for I just coming up, and in half an hour it knew that any decent man would have would be broad daylight. In less than asked me for a ride. My next idea was that time the sheriff came, and two men with him. I told him the whole in a few words, and then he made for the cart .man would have broken into my cart for He told the chap inside who he was, and that purpose. And that thought, gentle- if he made the least resistance he'd be a men, opened my eyes. Whoever was in dead man. Then I slipped the iron wrench out, and as I let the door down the fellow made a spring. I caught him by the ankle second the officer had him. It was now daylight, and the moment I saw the chap

So I drew my pistol, and press agent for bringing them from Indianhaving twined the reins about the whip- apolis, and then went to work to stow them stock, I carefully slipped down in the mud, away in my cart. The bullet holes were and as the cart passed on I went behind it found in the top of my vehicle just as I inches apart, and had I been where I usually sit, two of them would have hit me somewhere about the small of the back and passed upward, for they were sent with a heavy charge of powder, and his pistels were heavy ones.

On the next morning the sheriff had called upon me and paid me two hundred dollars in gold, for he had made himself sure that he had got the villain. I afterwards found a letter in the post office at Portsmouth for me from the sheriff of Hancock county, and he informed me that the fellow who had tried to kill and rob me is

"LOUDER!"

A man lately went to the Post Office and putting his mouth close up to the delivcry box, cried out "Louder!" The clerk supposed the man to be deaf and that he was making a request of him to speak louder, so that he could hear, asked him in a very loud tone, the name of the person for whom he wanted the letter.

"Louder!" cried the man. "What name?" yelled the clerk.

"Louder!" again bawled the man, who now supposed the clerk to be deaf. The clerk took a long breath, and with all his might again bellowed out in the man's face the same question, "What name?"-This was done in so loud a tone that the echo seemed to return from the far-off

The man started back in alarm shouting to very top of his big lungs:

"Louder, sir, Louder! I told you Louder! my name is nothing else!" "Oh, ah, oh, ho!" said the clerk, "your name is Louder, eh! Didn't think of that; here's your letter; Mr. Louder, here's your letter."

An Arkansas correspondent of the New Orleans Picayune gives the following as authentic:

You are all fond of cracking jokes at the expense of Arkansas; now here is one on your State, absolutely true. I got it from an eve witness:

The district court in one of your northern parishes was in session-'twas the first day of the court; time, after dinner .-Lawyers and others had dined and were sitting out before the hotel, and a long, lank, unsophisticated countryman came up and unceremoniously made himself one of 'em, and remarked: 'Gentlemen, I wish you would go on with this court, for I want to go home-I left Betsy a looking out.' 'Ah!' said one of the lawyers, 'and pray, sir, what detains you at court?'

She doubtless does well enough for the station in which she moves, and which have the reward of two hundred dollars she is assigned to fill, as the wife of some sturdy mechanic; but you, as well as she, would find she was quite out of her sphere in more refined society.'

'I am sorry to hear you express such sentiments. What have we, the children of a republican government, to do with such nice distinctions? Worth is the criterion by which we are to judge, not the accident of fortune or family. This is one of the chief beauties of our republican institutions, that it grants to every man and woman the power to become the architect of their own fortune-to be something or nothing /

PUNCTUATION PUZZLE.

The following paragraph, extracted from the Portland Transcript, is a capital illustration of the importance of punctuation. There are two ways of pointing it, one of which makes the individual in question a monster of wickedness, while the other converts him into a model Christian. Let our readers exercise their ingenuity on the problem, and see if they can discover its two-fold solution:

He is an experienced man in vice and wickedness he is never found opposing the works of iniquity he takes delight in the downfall of the neighborhood he never rejoices in the prosperity of any of his fellow creatures he is always ready to assist in destroying the peace of society he takes no pleasure in serving the Lord he is uncommonly diligent in sowing discord among his friends and acquaintances he takes no pride in laboring to promote the cause of Christianity he has not been negligent in endeavoring to stigmatise all public teachers he makes no exertion to subdue his evil passions he strives hard to build up Satan's kingdom he lends no aid to support the gospel among the heathen he contributes largely to the evil adversary he pays no attention to good advice be gives great heed to the devil he will never go to Heaven he must go where he will receive the just recompense of reward.

> Many persons are at a loss to understand why it is that Fillmore politicians, and especially those of the South, should persist so strenuously, and with such seeming confidence, in urging his pretensions before the people, when it must be manifest to them that there is not the shadow of a chance for committed themselves to the support of Mr. Fillmore when it was thought his chances were fair, are now, from party pride and oburging his pretensions. But we think there is another reason why the partisans of Fillmore still cling to him, knowing as they do that he can scarcely hope to carry a single State. By so doing, they keep themselves in a position of open and violent antagonism to the Democratic party, the only real and formidable barrier to the progress of anti-slavery fanaticism and sectionalism .-This serves not only to gratify their in-bred hostility to the Democracy, but holds out to them something in expectancy, thus :-The Republicans are known to be a party of real power and back bone, and not without strong hopes of succeeding at the coming election. They are known to have no party except in the free States. If, then, Col. Fremont should be elected, and the calamity of a dissolution, now so seriously apprehended by many, should not happen, will he, most likely, dispose of the number ous executive appointments—the spoils, as they are called in the Southern section?— Even the Know Nothing and the Freesell sympathizers in the South will admit, that if he were to attempt to import appointees from the North, it would quickly raise a storm that would blow the Union to atoms. No one would know this better than the Republican President. He would not, therefore, dare to venture upon such a course. The local offices of the Scath, and some general appointments would make the some policy and necessity, have to full to some party in the South. No one believes that any true and high minded Democrat would apply for office to Mr. Fremont, and, not applying, would not get office. Or, if offices should be tendered them, there is no probability that they would be accepted .-Who, then, would succeed to the offices and Fillmore party, of course; who are fighting hand in hand with the Black Republicans in Pennsylvania a :d other Northern States. They are the party at the South who have always rejoiced at the success of Republicans over the Democrats, as the next best thing to their own triumph that could happen .-It is, hence, very evident that the executive patronage at the South, at least, would in-ure to their benefit, in the event of Fremont's election.

As a half or a very large portion of the offices then, constitute no inconsiderable stake to be played for by ambitious and hungry politicians of easy virtue, does any one suppose that that class of men among the Fillmoreites, which is known to be sufficiently numerous, has not an eye to what must happen for their advantage, should the nominee of the Black Republicans get to the White House, and the Union still hold together. As half a loaf is said to be better than no bread and they will be sure of that much in any event, is it any wonder that the Fillmore organs and politicians of the South who are concerned for themselves, should fight the Democrats "We have elected a Democratic Legis- with eagerness and desperation, and be found less hostile and vindictive towards the Northern sectional anti-slavery party?
Is it any wonder that they should join the Republicans in denouncing the repeal of the Missouri compromise? Is it any won-der that they should twit and desparage Southern men, who apprehend and talk about the probabilities of a dissolution of the Union, as a consequence of a Black Republican triumph? Is it any wonder that such men as Sam Houston, Senator Bell of Tennessee, Col. Marshall, John M. The Government has been in the hands of the Democratic party almost all the time since the organization of parties. That party has proved itself patriotic and equal to the successful and prosperous management of public affairs. In proof of this, we proudly point to our past history-to the records of the country. Every feature impressed upon the national statute-book is Democratic, and put there by Democrats. No Whig measure stands recorded there as now existing - no Know Nothing measure is there-but all is Democratic from beginning to end. In other words, he has written a letter which we find in the New York Herald, Fremont's great Organ. The Herald chuckles over the letter with evident delight, because Mr. Rayner advises an amalgamation of all parties at the North for the purpose of defeating the Democracy. Rayner's letter contains some passages which we extract for the benefit his dicta as gospel truths. After a brief introductory paragraph, he opens as follows:

Mr. Fillmore is popular throughout the South, and has been for years. He next proceeds to calculate Mr. Fillmore's chances-and in this melancholy strain utters his idea thereupon:

And yet, owing to the perpetual agitation and intensity of excitement that the ruling spirits of democracy manage to keep up on the subject of slavery throughout the South, I should be wanting in candor if I States as against Buchanan.

How do those K. N's feel who have bet their money on five Southern States?-Rayner himself does not "pretend" to "think" of relying on more than four !

He takes ground that the election of Fremont would not be just cause for a dissolution of the Union, and that the Southern people, outside of the leaders, would be opposed to dissolution in such a contingeney. LETTER OF GOV. WISE.

RICHMOND, VA., OCT., 1856. State, on the 25th inst. I regret this the more, because I was obliged, when in North Carolina, to decline similar requests from it imperative that I should abstain from any public address.

I lately, for the first time in my life. had the gratification of visiting your noble, my post, have been called upon by the Raleigh Register, of Oct. 15th, to answer:

"1st. By whose invitation came these gentlemen (Gov. Adams, of S. C., and Wise of Va.) to North Carolina? 2nd. Why did they meet here just in time for the returns of the Pennsylvania election? 3rd. It calls on the Standard to answer : -'What does it say to this attempt to hitch our conservative, Union-loving old disunion ?

Now these questions of "guilty or not guilty," are put after an indictment in due newspaper form for "Disunion," for applying an "incendiary torch," "acting without authority," madness, "leather and 'prunella," in one alternative, or "treason" n the next.

the Cincinnati Convention. The Committee on Resolutions, by their chairman, Mr. Hallett of Massachusetts, submitted the following report, which was adopted by the Convention :

Resolved. That the American Democracy place their trust in the intelligence, the patriotism, and the discriminating justice of the American people.

Resolved, That we regard this as a distinctive feature of our political creed, which we are proud to maintain before the world, as the great moral element in a form of overnment springing from and upheld by the popular will; and we contrast it with the creed and practice of Federalism, under whatever name or form, which seeks to palsy the will of the constituent, and which conceives no imposture too monstrous for the popular credulity.

Resolved, therefore, That, entertaining these views, the Democratic party of this Union, through their Delegates assembled in a general Convention, coming together in a spirit of concard, of devotion to the doctrues and faith of a free representative government, and appealing to their fellow citizens for the rectitude of their intentions, renew and re-assert before the American people, the declarations of principles avowed by them, when, on former occasions, in general Convention, they have presented their candidates for the popular suffrages. 1. That the Federal Government is one of limited power, derived solely from the Constitution; and the grants of power made therein ought to be strictly construed by all the departments and agents of the government; and that it is inexpedient and dangerous to exercise doubtful constitutional powers.

2. That the Constitution does not confer upon the Government the power to commence and carry on a general system of nternal improvements.

3. That the Constitution does not confer uthority upon the Federal Government, directly or indirectly, assume the debts of the several States, contacted for local and internal improvements, or other State purposes; nor would such assumption be just or expedient. 4. That justice and sound policy forpib the Federal Government to foster one branch of industry to the detriment of any other, or to cherish the interests of one portion to the injury of another portion of our common country; that every citizen and every section of the country has a right to demand and insist upon an equality of rights and privileges, and to complete and ample protection of persons and property from domestic violence for foreign aggression.

8. That the separation of the moneys of the Government from banking institutions is indispensable for the safety of the funds of the Government, and the rights of the people.

States .-

1. That Congress has no power under the Constitution, to interfere with or control the domestic institutions of the several States, and that such States are the sole and proper judges of everything apportaining to their own affairs, not prohibited by the Constitution; that all efforts of the abolitionists or others, made to induce Congress to interfere with questions of slavery, or to take incipient steps in relation thereto, are calculated to lead to the most alarming and dangerous consequences; and that such efforts have an inevitable tendency to diminish the happiness of the people, and endanger the stability and permanency of the Union, and ought not to be countenanced by any friend of our political institutions.

2. That the foregoing proposition covers, and was intended to embrace, the whole subject of slavery agitation in Congress; and therefore, the Democratic pary of the Union, standing on this national latform, will abide by and adhere to a aithful execution of the acts known as the Compromise Measures, settled by the Congress of 1850: "the act for reclaiming natives from service or labor," included; which act being designed to carry out an express provision of the Constitution, cannot, with fidelity thereto, be repealed or so changed as to destroy or impair its effi-

3. That the Democratic party will resist all attempts at renewing, in Congress or out of it, the agitation of the slavery quesion, under whatever shape or color the attempt may be made.

4. That the Democratic party will faithfully abide by and uphold the principles laid down in the Kentucky and Virginia resolutions of 1798, and in the report of Mr. Madison to the Virginia Legislature, in 1799; that it adopts those principles as constituting one of the main foundations of its political creed, and is resolved to carry them out in their obvious meanting and import.

And that we may more distinctly mee the issues on which a sectional party, subisting exclusively on slavery agitation, now relies to test the fidelity of the people. North and South, to the Constitution and

HUNDREDS OF OUR OWN CITIZENS, the Rich, the Poor, everywhere, bear the same TESTIMONY. Read the following certificate from a lady, en dorsed by Postmaster E. P. Cooper:

Hampshire county, Va., March 1, 1854. Mr. E. P. Cooper .- Dear Sir: Agreeable your request, and my own desire to benefit the afflicted, I hereby certify the great relief I received from the use of HAMPTON'S VEGETA BLE TINCTURE

I was taken with a violent palpitation, or rather fluttering of the heart, which continued several days; it seemed : " though my heart had almost forgotten its office. The family became alarmed and procured a bottle of this valuable medicine, and before I had taken near one bottle of this valuable medicine, and before I had taken near one bottle of this TINCTURE OF HAMPTON'S I was entirely relieved.

This is the third instance of relief in my family by the use of this valuable medicine. Two or three years ago, I was laid up with ulcera-tion of my ankle, from the effect of what is usu ally called a milk leg. I had lost all taste and appetite; and the sore which was some four nches up and down, and half-way around my ankle, rejected every effort to heal it, until procured HAMPTON'S VEGETABLE TINC TURE, one bottle of which restored my health healed my ankle, and I am freer from swelling than the last thirty years.

Again, one of my daughters was very low from severe disentery, and when she began to sit up her feet commenced swelling which in creased every day, to be very painful-she used a bottle of Hampton's Tincture; the pains were assuaged, the swellings subsided and her health returned-we kept her legs bandaged with strips of woollen until her strength returned.

I have been thus particular, that others, under similar circumstances, might be induced to avail themselves of this remedy. Yours with respect,

I do hereby certify that I am personally quainted with Mrs. Edwards, and can safely commend the above statement to be co. rect. E. P. COOPER, Postmaster, Capon Bridge, Hampshire co., Va. Delicate ladies and children will please

REV. VERNON ESKRIDGE, U. S. N.) Portsmouth, Va., Aug., 18, 1851. MR. J. E. Bouse .- Sir, While I am in gener opposed to Patent Medicines, candor compels me to state, that I have great confidence in the virtues of HAMPTON'S VEGETABLE TINC TURE. For several months past I have used i in my family, and in dispepsia, loss of appetite, dizziness and general debility, with entire suc cess. So far as my experience extends there fore. I take pleasure in recommending it to the afflicted, as a safe and efficient remedy.

VERNON ESKRIDGE, Chaplain U.S. N. Portsmouth, Va., Aug. 18, 1852.

I am respectfully yours.

SURE CURE!

BALTIMORE LOCK HOSPITAL. WHERE may be obtained the most speedy remedy for weakness or loss of Organic Powers, Pain in the Loins, Diseases of the Kidneys, Affections of the Head, Throat, Nose and Skin, Constitutional Debility, impediments to Marriage and all those horrid affections arising from indiscretions, no matter whether from intemperance, or the use of ardent spirits or any other cause.

TO YOUNG MEN, especially who have become the victims of evil practices. Alas! what countless numbers of generous and noble-hearted beings have been swept to untimely tombs; thousands of young men of the most exalted talents and brilliant intellects, who might otherwise have entranced listening Senates with the thunders of eloquence, or waked to ecstacy the living lyre. Those suffering from any of the following melancholy effects, should immediately apply to DR. JOHNSTON. Weakness of the Back and Limbs, Pains in the Head, Dimness of Sight, Loss of Muscular Power, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Nervous Irritability, Derangement of the Digestive Functions, General Debility, Symptoms of Consumption, &c., &c., &c.

MENTALLY .- The fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded; loss of memory, Confusion of ideas, Depression of Spirits, Ferebodings of Evil, Aversion of Society, Self-Distrust, Love of Solitude, Timidity, etc., are some of the evils produced. Office-No. 7, South Frederick Street, Sevand elsewhere, has effected some of the most as tonishing cures that were ever known. Many troubled with ringing in the ears and head when asleep, great nervousness, being alarmed at sudden sounds, and bashfulness, with frequent blushing, attended, sometimes, with derangement of mind, were cured immediately. TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.

Parents and Guardians are often misled with espect to the cause or source of disease in their soas and wards. Alas! how often do they as cribe to other causes the wasting of the frame, Palpitation of Heart, Dysppesia, Indigestion, de rangement of the Nervous System, Cough, and Symptoms of Consumption, also those serious nental effects, such as loss of Memory, Depression of Spirits or peculiar fits of melancholy, when the truth is they have been caused by indulging in Pernicious but alluring practices, destructive to both body and mind. Thus are swept from exisfence thousands who might have been of use to their country, a pleasure to their friends and ornaments to society.
DR. JOHNSTON'S INVIGORATING REMEDY

FOR ORGANIC WEAKNESS. This grand and important Remedy has retored strength and vigor to thousands of the most debilitated individuals, many who had lost all hopes, and been abandoned to die. By its complete invigoration of the nervous system the whole faculties become restored to their proper power and functions, and the fallen fabric f life is raised up to beauty, consistency and duration, upon the ruins of an emaciated and premature decline, to sound and pristine health Oh, how happy have hundreds of misguided youths been made, who have been suddenly restored to health from the devastations of those terrific maladies which result from indiscretion
